

Abstract

The invention relates to polynucleotides of the PAPAP gene, polypeptides encoded by the PAPAP gene, and antibodies directed specifically against such polypeptides. The invention also concerns methods for the treatment or diagnosis of schizophrenia, bipolar disorder or 5 related CNS disorder. The invention also concerns the interaction of PAPAP with schizophrenia candidate gene g34872.